NEW PLACER MACHINE

GLENDALE MAN INVENTS INGENIOUS AND COMPACT DEVICE FOR WASHING GOLD

In the old days of goldhunting a great deal of the values in the placers and quartz mines were lost because of imperfect washing devices. Modern miners often take leases on the old dumps and with the modern washing and cyaniding devices clean up considerable fortunes. The devices for the recovery of gold are more numerous than one would care to enumerate. The sea shore at Nome, Alaska, is the graveyard of a hundred machines by means of which enthusiasts thought they were to make fortunes. Most of them were failures.

To find a really good and reliable washer for placer gold has been difficult. That difficulty Mr. H. M. Botts, 425 Brand boulevard, professes to have overcome, by means of a portable placer machine which washes out a cubic yard of gravel per hour, doing the work of ten men at least.

One of the most valuable features of this machine is that instead of the auriferous gravel having to be conveyed with difficulty and expense to the machine, the machine is portable and can be moved without any difficulty from place to place, thus making the handling of gravel and other deposits a matter of ease.

This machine is simple. No mercury is used. It consists of a hopper into which the sand or gravel is poured. At the bottom of the hopper a pipe enters, conveying water to the bottom of the gravel pile and washing it down into a large tray where it is kept in a state of constant agitation. At the top of the tray are three riffles which catch the gold which is washed into it. The gravel passes through another section of the tray, the bottom of which is perforated. The material that is being washed passes over the screen, where the coarse stuff is automatically removed, allowing all values to come in contact with the riffles. The motion is oscillatory and packing is impossible. The pans are cleaned by simply removing and flushing them out over some receptacle with a hose which is furnished. The process is simple and rapid.

Naturally in placer washing the saving of values is the most important feature. This machine is said to save so much of the values that the item of loss ceases to be worth consideration.

The machine is easily carried about. The engine can be detached from the frame. The parts of the machine where wear and tear may be expected are made of steel. All bolts have lock washers and the frame is so rigidly constructed there is no vibration. Shaft boxes and eccentrics are bronze bushed.

This machine can keep two men busy doing the work of ten. The fuel consumption is less than one gallon of gasoline per day, while the water used is only about 200 gallons per hour, and when necessary a large percentage of the water can be recovered again and again. The weight of the machine is approximately 450 lbs., and the price $350 f. o. b. Los Angeles.

With such a machine as this a great many placers hitherto unworkable can be worked at a profit. On many of the low-grade placers in Arizona, Alaska and California it will prove invaluable. It is equally good for washing tungsten gravels and should prove of immense value on the desert deposits of California.

VICTIMS OF AUTO ACCIDENT

Dorothy Bonnell, who was so seriously injured ten days ago in an auto accident on Central avenue, is still unconscious. At times the doctors and nurses have thought they perceived signs of returning consciousness, but they have been disappointed. Her physical condition is considerably improved, however, and hopes for her recovery are stronger.

Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan has improved considerably. Her three broken ribs are mending and she has hopes of being able to be removed to her own home when another week has passed. Mrs. Sloan has been the recipient of a great many kind inquiries and sympathy and her sick room is daily replenished with many bouquets of flowers from her large circle of friends.

VISIT PASADENA SHOW

GARDEN SOCIETY WILL GET POINTERS AT NEIGHBORING FLOWER SHOW

Members and friends of the Glendale Garden society have arranged a novel floral "joyride" to Pasadena next Friday afternoon to visit the Pasadena Flower Show. At 3:30 a crowd of automobiles will leave the Garden Society headquarters at 1111 W. Broadway, and proceed together to Pasadena show, where officials of the Pasadena Horticultural society will receive the Glendale contingent and pay them every courtesy. Admission to the Pasadena Flower Show is 25 cents. The president of the Glendale Garden society, Mrs. Nanno Woods, and Mr. Morris Caruthers, manager of the forthcoming free flower show, have planned this trip with a special view to obtaining the latest ideas in the way of floral exhibits. Any Glendale people thinking of visiting the Pasadena show are invited to join the trip on Friday afternoon. The fact of a large number of automobiles filled with Glendale folks going in a body to Pasadena will be in itself a big advertisement for Glendale; so let everybody join. Owners of automobiles who might have one or more seats vacant are invited to phone to headquarters, Glendale 1357 their offer to accommodate some flower lover who does not possess a machine. Let every automobile fly a Glendale pennant. An official pennant has been selected and can be obtained from headquarters at the usual store price of 25 cents.

The following friends have already promised to be at headquarters next Friday afternoon before 3:30 o'clock with their automobiles. Mr. M. B. Hartmann, one seat vacant.

Mrs. Frank Hester, all seats filled.

Mrs. Ella Richardson, all seats filled.

Mrs. Rosie Cook, all seats filled.

Mr. Morris Caruthers, all seats filled.

Mrs. Walter Ross, two seats vacant.

Mrs. H. Beede, two seats vacant.

Mr. J. Beldin, two seats vacant.

How many more friends will join? The hour of 3:30 has been arranged because many professors and teachers would like to be of the merry crowd. So it is expected that during the week at least eight more automobiles will be added to the list. Everybody who can should turn out and show Pasadena what Glendale folks look like.

SPECTACULAR OIL BLAZE IN NEW YORK

TEXAS OIL COMPANY'S DOCKS CATCH FIRE AND DESTROY LARGE SECTION OF WATER FRONT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW YORK, April 8.—One of the most spectacular dock fires that this city has known for some time occurred this morning when the dock of the Texas Oil company caught fire. Vast crowds stood at a safe distance while a regular pyrotechnic display was made by the thousands of exploding gasoline cans. The oil tanks blazed and burst. The burning oil spread over a vast acreage of the water front and prevented the fireboats from getting near the blaze. The oil from the broken tanks and cans finally constituted a thin film over the waters as far as Staten Island. The fire was finally mastered and burned itself out after doing a great deal of damage.

A CELESTIAL VISITOR

GUEST FROM ANOTHER WORLD MAKES INQUIRIES WHICH REMAIN UNANSWERED

Then he came to a very beautiful valley and looked down upon broad streets lined with, trees and many pretty houses, with green fields round about. And there appeared to be much excitement and unrest in the Place for many motor wagons were passing quickly to and fro while their drivers called out with loud voices and made many gestures. And The Visitor from Above came near and calling out to one of those who passed along the streets, demanded of him the cause of so much Turmoil and why he constantly cried "Turn the Rascals out." The one thus questioned replied in this wise: "We who are running about are the only Honest men living here and we are seeking to Save the Town from being utterly destroyed by Those now in Power who have long Pilfered its wealth and Impoverished its Citizens."

"But," said the Visitor, "this seemingly is a more cleanly and well kept city than those round about it. I see no grog shops on its corners nor men drunken with wine upon its streets. Water it seems to have abundantly that very many of its vacant spaces are planted to vegetables and grains which are good for man and Beast, and when last night I passed by this way I truly wondered at the brightly lighted roadways and the windows so cheerily reflecting the comfortable home life of its people. And today a Little Bird told me that in spite of all that had been done to improve this Pretty Town its People paid a lesser Tax this year than in the year before. And The Little Bird said, too, that many Roadways had been paved, that much piping and needed fire hydrants had been added, that a Great Supply of Water had been obtained (enough for many years to come), and that now as it costs so little to have all the Water one desired that the Desert Places had been made productive and helpful for the support of The People. And if these things be True why do you and many others harry yourselves and all about you with your constant outcry and cavil at the Good Deeds of those who have brought about these Good Things? May it not be, perchance, that a Wicked Bee abideth within your Bonnet, a Covetous Insect which seeks to make Little of the Good Things that have been wrought by Those in Authority, and which urges you to seek their Places, not for the Welfare of The Pretty Town but for your own advancement?" But The Visitor sought in vain for a reply. The Citizen had departed quickly, crying out as before in a loud voice "Turn the Rascals out" and heeded not the words of his Questioner.

T. W. Preston.

G. B. WOODBERRY'S QUALIFICATIONS

G. B. Woodberry, candidate for the position of Trustee in the present campaign, is well known to those of our citizens who were living in the valley at the time of the incorporation of Glendale in 1906 as a city of the sixth class. As the census at that time showed our numerical strength to be only a little over 1300, it follows that the balance of our present 6000 population have come to Glendale since that time and to such of these as may be unacquainted with Mr. Woodberry we wish to say a few words regarding his record.

He came to what is now Glendale in 1884, when the valley products were chiefly sage brush and jackrabbits. In 1886 the Verdugo Canyon Water Co. was in want of a superintendent and gave the position to him, the duties connected therewith were to care for the water belonging to the people of the valley and make an equable division of the same to the different parts of the valley where the local owners had distributing systems. In the beginning this distribution was largely a matter of guess work and judgment and very different from the automatic division system now employed.

About 1901 Mr. Woodberry was elected secretary of the same corporation and now holds the combined positions, being in uninterrupted service 30 years this month, during which time the water of the valley supplied from Verdugo Canyon has been under his charge. As the Verdugo Canyon Water Co. is a mutual corporation and has usually had a change in its directorate each year, it follows that Mr. Woodberry must have given good service to be so long retained.

In 1906 the citizens who were responsible for the movement to incorate Glendale selected Mr. Woodberry as the first city clerk, and he held the position until 1914, at which time he refused to be a candidate for re-election. For his record there we would refer to the various auditor's reports on city affairs and those citizens who served as trustees during his term as clerk.

From the foregoing it may be seen that this candidate has had experience along two lines, which experience should be of value to both himself and to the city if he be elected, viz.: Long familiarity with water conditions in Verdugo Canyon, embracing both flood and supply phases of these two important matters, and an intimate knowledge of the working of the city government obtained while serving as clerk of the Board of Trustees.

If elected to the office of Trustee this candidate will endeavor to represent all parts of the city as impartially as may be possible and will favor strict economy in the administration of city affairs. This does not mean that he will countenance a policy of parsimony which would result in blocking the wheels of progress.

J. C. SHERER FOR CITY CLERK

Mr. Sherer is a candidate for re-election as City Clerk. When he was a candidate for the first time two years ago, he claimed to have more knowledge of the duties of the office than the average man on the outside, because of his close association with the city government from the time of its formation, principally through his connection with the Glendale News, which business required him to keep in close touch with all city affairs. He did find this knowledge considerable help in taking hold of the business of the Clerk's office, but says he has since discovered that he really knew very little about its manifold duties. He does claim now, however, to be thoroughly familiar with the work of the position, a familiarity which cannot possibly be acquired by anyone short of several months incumbency of the office, and not then with thoroughness unless he is also familiar with the city's history and is more or less intimate with the various subjects which come up from time to time, quite oueside the daily routine of the office. His long residence in this valley has necessarily made Mr. Sherer familiar with many phases of its development, which naturally is not the case with any one who was not here when the city was born, or before. Succeeding in office a gentleman who had given several years of valuable service to the city, Mr. Sherer declared at the time of his election that he had no expectation of "reforming" things in the Clerk's office. But there have been a number of changes inaugurated, however, made necessary by the general growth of the city's business and by the general installation in the various departments at the city hall of an up-to-date bookkeeping system. This system makes it very easy to trace any expenditure of city money and give all the details of the transaction. And it may not be amiss to say here that the Clerk's office has never withheld any information on file there which any citizen asked for, but has always cheerfully produced it regardless of the inquirer's motive.

The giving out of information in regard to city affairs is one of the principal duties of the City Clerk and has always been so regarded by the present incumbent; this policy will be followed out consistently as long as Mr. Sherer remains in the office. The present city clerk attends personally to several details of the office work which did not devolve upon his predecessor and to do this is required to put in longer hours of service daily than when he came into the office. These services have been assumed voluntarily, as Mr. Sherer is not a man who shirks work or responsibility. The old saying about swapping horses while crossing a stream applies very forcibly to the present occupant of the City Clerk's office; he is the right man in the right place.

WHY WE SHOULD RE-ELECT OUR PRESENT CITY TREASURER

G. B. Hoffman is a candidate for re-election to the office he now holds and his record should justify the voters of Glendale in retaining his services for a further term. His efficiency is unquestioned as must be admitted by all who know him. It is argued by some that he has served the city long enough, and some one else ought to have an opportunity to hold the office. The interest of each voter in the administration of the business of a community are in every way identical with the interests of each stockholder in the management of a private corporation.

Would any firm or corporation discharge a valuable man from its service for the only reason that some one e'se needs the job? Mr. Hoffman was appointed to the position when the affairs of the city were in their early stages of development, and he has in a large way made the office of the treasurer what it now is. In the beginning his position as treasurer was small, and he has earned promotion only after plenty of hard work in putting into operation a thorough, effective system of accounting.

The offices of assessor and tax collector which are appointive he has filled with unusual success, as witness the fact that for the past four years the Board of Equalization has been able to approve his annual assessment roll without the complaint of a single taxpayer.

The three offices having thus been combined, the work has been done at the least possible expense to the property owners, the salary he receives covering all the work of the three departments, plus that of but one assistant.

And now since we have entered upon another tax year it is essential that the man who is thoroughly familiar with the work and who, we believe, has the interests of every taxpayer as well as the interests of the other citizens of this community at heart, should continue rather than one who would be handicapped by in experience.

Moreover, the election of the city treasurer carries with it considerable responsibility. For this further reason in the interest of the public the man who has proven his worth should be allowed to remain.

Keep the City Clean

Although the city treasurer has no part in the directive administration of the city's affairs, Mr. Hoffman as a citizen and voter and as a member of one of our local churches stands first and foremost for all that is high minded and all that is pure and clean, both physically and spiritually.

We trust the people to whom he now appeals for re-election will prove their confidence in him at the polls on April 10th next.

A GREAT LIGHT

Believing that the Panama Canal will be instrumental in shaping the trade routes of the world, and lead a vast procession of ships through waters heretofore unfrequented the United States Government is preparing to go far afield and establish a lighthouse on Navassa Island, a small islet of the West Indies, east of Hayti. It will be unique in that it will be the only one maintained by the United States on land that is not a part of the national domain.

The island has been a "no man's land," and the courts of the United States assumed jurisdiction over it some years ago, when the guano deposits there were being worked by an American company.

Congress has appropriated $125,000 for the building of the lighthouse. The light will have a beam of 56,000 candlepower that can be seen for twenty-seven nautical miles. There is only one other lighthouse that is in any way comparable to Navassa—that on Cape Spartel, the Moroccan headland across from Gibraltar. It has been maintain since 1867 by Great Britain, the United States, Morocco, Austria, Belgium, Spain, France, Italy, the Netherlands and Portugal.

Nature never hurries; atom by atom, little by little, she achieves her work. The lesson one learns in fishing, yachting, hunting or planting is the manners of nature—patience with many delays.—Emerson.

Mr. Muhleman has taken an active part in all matters of public interest in Glendale. He opposed the disincorporation of the city in 1906. He worked for and advocated purchasing the municipal lighting plant. He urged and worked for the annexation of additional territory to the City of Glendale in all the annexation elections He worked for and advocated the acquisition of the municipal water plant. He was one of the original members of the Glendale Valley Improvement Association and chairman of its executive committee for a number of terms. He is a member of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Glendale. He was chairman of the Board of Freeholders that drafted the freeholders charter submitted to the vote of the people in 1913. He has been active in advancing all of the material interests of the city and has given unsparingly of his time for the creation of a greater and better city. He, together with L. W. Chobe, is the owner of the brick block at the corner of Maple and Brand boulevard in the City of Glendale. He is married and has one daughter and resides at 1211 Maple street. Mr. Muhleman will bring to the office of city trustee, if he is elected, a ripe experience in business and a good knowledge of men and measures. His friends urge his election in the firm conviction that he will prove a faithful servant and trustee of the people.

WORK OF WIRELESS AMATEURS

A message sent recently by wireless to governors of all the States and the mayors of the large cities, from Davenport, Ia., as a demonstration of the efficiency of the country's 25,000 licensed amateur operators, reached the remotest parts of the land, through various relays. It required about an hour and a half to send the message to the Pacific Coast, 2,000 miles.

AERIAL TUGBOAT

For towing barges on the rivers of British Guiana, where the water is often very shallow, a London firm has built a tugboat moved by an aerial propeller. It is a little more than thirty feet long and draws less than eight inches of water. The hull is of steel, as it has to resist a constant scraping on the bottom of the river.

It has a single-cylinder motor worked by crude oil, and running at the rate of 450 revolutions a minute, while the propellor works at the rate of 1,200 revolutions a minute. On its first trial the tug made five miles an hour against the current of the Thames River. It is expected to make two miles an hour when towing fifteen barges thirty feet long and ten feet wide, each laden with about two tons of freight.

STUDYING ECONOMY

The Southern Railway has been carrying on extensive tests to determine the cost of each operation involved in railroading. For example, the cost of bringing a 2,000-ton freight train, traveling at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, to a full stop, and then starting and regaining the same speed, was found to be approximately sixty-one cents.

It is said that many of the roads are now run on such a narrow margin of profits that all these items of expense have to be watched with the utmost care.

"Do you believe in intensive gardening, Mrs. Hoerake?" asked the visitor.

"Well, rather," said Mrs. Hoerake. "I spent all last winter raising one geranium in a soap box.—Harper's Weekly.

A Denver man of considerable means, who died recently, devised a peculiar, and in some respects highly sensible, method of leaving his money to his sons. He left each of them five hundred dollars, and arranged that at the end of every year each of them shall receive a sum equal to what he has earned and saved during the year.—Exchange.

CITY ATTORNEY'S SALARY

To the People of the City of Glendale:—

During the past few months there have been so many false and untrue statements circulated in the City of Glendale with reference to the salary of the City Attorney, and the amount the city has paid for legal services, that I feel it is my duty to make a public statement of the facts as they really are, so that those who wish to know the truth may have that privilege. These are matters of public record, and strictly speaking, I do not feel it is necessary for me to make a statement, but comparatively few people go to the trouble of examining these records and are left to unauthentic reports and rumor for their information.

From May, 1911, to May, 1912, the city paid me $50.00 per month salary, which amount was not to cover services for court work. From May, 1912, to July, 1914, the city paid me a salary of $85.00 per month, which was not to include services for court work. From July,

City Attorney W. E. Evans

1914, the city has been paying me a monthly salary of $100.00, which is to include all court work except in contested cases.

On April 1st, 1916, I will have been acting as your city attorney for five years, lacking one month, or a period of 59 months. For this period the total amount of salary paid me was $4762.50, and also for extra services for court work, $3710.00, or a total for salary and court work of $8472.50. (Certain people are circulating reports that the city is paying me $8000.00 per year). During this time the city has been involved in twenty-six actions in the Superior Court of this county, four of these actions being carried to the Supreme Court of the State of California. In addition to these twenty-six cases, the city has had before the Railroad Commission of the State of California six actions, making in all thirty-two litigated cases. Some of these actions were pending for more than two years. The outcome in each and every one of these cases, except one, was in favor of the city, and in that one exception a judgment was rendered against the city for $250.00, and I have reason to believe that this judgment will be set aside and a new trial granted the city. By successfully defending the different actions filed by the water companies for the purpose of enjoining the enforcement of ordinances reducing the rates, the people of the City of Glendale were saved in the two years covered by the ordinances more than $30,000.00 in addition to compelling one of the companies to return to its patrons about $3000.00 paid for meter and service connections.

During the time I have been city attorney, the city has had eight actions in the Superior Court for the condemnation of property for street purposes. It takes from one to two years to carry through a proceeding of this kind, and involves an enormous amount of work. The city has never paid me one cent for court work in any of these cases. On the contrary I have furnished the city a stenographer and all the stationery necessary, except in three proceedings. I have paid something over $50.00 out of my own pocket for stenographic work, stationery and supplies in the opening and widening of one street. I have furnished a stenographer, stamps, stationery and supplies at my own cost and expense during the fifty-nine months I have acted as city attorney. I find that other cities are paying for their condemnation work, and also paying for the stenographic work.

In order that the people may compare what this work is costing them with what it is costing other cities, I wish to state that I have made some inquiry and I find that the cities of South Pasadena and Alhambra (which compare favorably with Glendale in population and amount of work involved on the city attorney) pay as follows: South Pasadena, prior to August, 1914, was paying its city attorney $166.00 per month salary, and also paying him extra for all court work, including condemnation proceedings. It is now paying the city attorney $125.00 per month salary, and extra for all court work. Alhambra is paying its city attorney $100.00 per month salary, and extra for all court work, including condemnation proceedings. The city attorney of Alhambra informs me that the city pays him on an average of $2,000.00 a year for all services.

The total sum of $8,472.50 for all services, including litigation, for the period of fifty-nine months, is an average of $143.65 per month, I furnishing stenographer, stationery and supplies, except as above stated.

During the time from August, 1912, to August, 1914, the City of Glendale was involved in quite a number of important matters of litigation concerning the fixing of water rates, regulation of service, valuation and purchasing of the plants. These actions were prosecuted against the city by some of the strongest law firms in Los Angeles county. It was necessary for me during this period to devote a major portion of my time to these matters, and I would welcome an investigation of my charges for services in these matters by any reputable lawyer of either the City of Glendale or Los Angeles, and his opinion as to the reasonableness thereof.

In all matters pertaining to the office of city attorney I have attempted to do my duty as I saw it, and stand for the interest of the city, without fear or favor, and the only purpose I have in making this statement is to let the people know the facts.

Sincerely yours,
W. E. EVANS.

THE FIR TREE

The fir tree pointed his finger tips
To the lowering sky—
The poor little posies, the lilies and roses
Looked ready to die!
But bravely the fir tree
Was pointing on high.

The fir tree pointed his fingers slim
Through the wintry rain;
The roots of the roses, the seeds of the posies—
He heard them complain;
But always the fir tree, the uplooking fir tree,
Saw blue sky again.

The fir tree's pointing his fingers green
Like a prophet of cheer;
And if, like the posies, the lilies and roses,
Your worry or fear,
Look up to the fir tree!
"You know," says the fir tree,
"'Tis God's world, my dear!"
—Anna B. Bryant in St. Nicholas.

CONSERVING LIFE

Practically every activity of the United States government in conserving life was shown at the National Museum, in Washington, recently. Every device used in the coast-guard service was shown in action. Another exhibit showed by means of models how wireless is used on the big ocean-going liners and on shore. A chart showed how last year twenty-five vessels clearing from United States ports and required to carry wireless apparatus met with disaster, but that only two lives were lost.

How the lighthouse bureau protects and conserves human life was demonstrated by models of lighthouses, light ships, buoys, submarine bells, and fog signals, such as the bureau maintains at dangerous points. The government authorities point with satisfaction to the fact that since the railroads were compelled by law to adopt safety appliances, the number of persons killed was reduced over sixteen per cent since 1914. Out of 1,000,000,000 passengers carried 222 were killed.

By the perfection of this system in the forestry service of fire patrols, fire lookouts, field telephone lines and wireless, the forest rangers are able to warn persons living near the national forests of fires many hours in advance of the approach of the flames.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1916

GLENDALE—A MODEL CITY

Ten years ago the site on which the City of Glendale now stands was practically devoid of houses. The district had not emerged from the ranch stage. The street railway on what is now Brand boulevard ran through fields What a transformation ten years has made! Bit by bit, gradually, slowly but surely the city has grown. It has grown sensibly, too; and every addition to it has been a logical and natural addition. Its streets have slowly evolved in the right direction and its public institutions have kept pace with the evolution of the civic idea.

It would be difficult to find a city of the same size that is better in any way than Glendale. Under capable direction it has two avenues that are paved in a manner equal to the best boulevards in any city. The main boulevard, Brand boulevard, has now been paved in first class style out to the north city limits and when lighted at night as it is with its 5-light standards presents an appearance that a recent visitor from New York declared equaled that of Broadway in that cosmopolitan city. The visitor was not in the least exaggerating. He did not mean, of course, that there were as many electric signs glaring and flaring from "window and casement, from garret to basement," as on Broadway or Fifth avenue, New York; but he did mean that the street lighting proper was just as good.

That lighting system has been carried up Broadway, which is also paved in the very best of style. From Glendale avenue, where the five-light standard system stops at present, the system will soon be carried up to the Childs' tract line. The lighting system is provided cheaply and the city provides this excellent system for all household purposes at a very reasonable rate.

Glendale, also, has a very fine water supply. That supply has been developed until it is very superior to that of most of the cities of Southern California and is supplied at a rate that is among the cheapest. Fresh from the bosom of the hills the water supply is pure and cool, retaining even some of the sparkle of the natural element that wells up from the depths of the rocks. Sanitary and healthgiving, this water is an asset of Glendale that deserves to be mentioned whenever any account of the city's natural resources is made.

It would be difficult to imagine a more attractive city than this progressive center that bids fair some day before long to grow into a community of vast importance. The city has an air of physical cleanliness and wholesomeness that always proves a vast attraction to people from all over the country. Only the other day a recent arrival in Glendale, who is not only acquainted with the cities of the middle west and of the east coast of the United States, but who has seen also the boasted resorts of Europe, stated that he found the climate of Glendale superior to that of any other place in which he had resided and far in advance of the much-advertised climate of San Diego.

There is a peace and repose for the tired city man in this climate that cannot be equaled elsewhere. A brief ride of twenty minutes on the street car transports him from the narrow and crowded streets of Los Angeles, with their rush and roar, to a region of paradisal peace, where nature's charms soothe the wearied spirit. Around him the eternal hills forever stand with the life-giving breezes which temper the summer sun. About him is one of the most picturesque countries to be found anywhere in the United States.

Should he desire to breathe the sea breezes and view the mighty Pacific, a run of half-an-hour by auto will take him to Santa Monica or a few minutes more to any of the other famous beaches of California. Few cities are so favorably situated with mountain, valley and sea scenery and climate within easy reach.

Glendale has been set, like a star in the firmament, in the midst of as fine natural surroundings as any place can boast. Northward the beautiful Verdugo hills guard the city from the cold winds; behind them as still other guardians the far-flung line of the Sierras "keeps watch and ward alway." Eastward the city is rapidly filling to the line of Eagle Rock and Los Angeles; southward it loses itself among the Tropico hills and westward runs into the great and beautiful stretch of the San Fernando valley. Orange groves and ranches of all kinds vary the scene; the scent of flowers is everywhere. Truly the Creator has planted us as a people in quiet resting places and laid upon us a mighty trust. It should be the duty of every citizen to live in daily consciousness of the duty imposed on him to leave the city better than he found it.

TEACHING STUDENTS HOW TO STUDY

It is now suggested by competent educational authorities that quite a proportion of students fail because they do not know how to study. Since statistics are not available it is fair enough to risk an estimate, based on the teaching experience of one of the leading educators of the State of California. This authority says that more than half of the failures in the State are caused by the fact that many of the students do not know how to study.

Teachers have been so busy teaching subjects, says this authority, that they haven't had time to teach individuals how to study those subjects. Moreover the learners' standpoint has not been sufficiently emphasized in the training of teachers. For these reasons much of the teaching does not reach the student.

There is a process of learning as well as a process of teaching. All good teaching involves the training of the pupil in the learning process. In fact, one of the aims of good teaching is to make the student more independent in his study. Too frequently, however, our teaching is a mere fusillade of questions to determine what the student has not learned.

It is certain that it is necessary to place more emphasis on the learning process. Some of the schools have installed a complete system of supervised study. The school day is divided into six hour periods. Teachers are relieved from all roll work. They do nothing but teach and supervise study. A special teacher is employed to take charge of the study hall and make the library more efficient than it has been.

The hour-period is divided into two parts, one of which is devoted exclusively to the recitation, the other to supervised study. The teachers instruct during four or five periods daily. School begins at 8:30 and ends at 3:15 with 45 minutes for lunch at 12:30.

Naturally the success of such a plan depends on the teacher. If the study period is not used to teach the students how to study the new plan will hardly stand the test of practical work. If the period is a period of activity on the part of the teacher it is believed that the number of failures will be greatly reduced in the high schools.

HE HAD A LOT OF SENSE

There was an old geezer and he had a lot of sense. He started up a business on a dollar-eighty cents. The dollar for stock, and the eighty for an ad brought him three lovely dollars in a day, by dad!

Well, he bought more goods and a little more space, and he played that system with a smile on his face.

The customers flocked to his two-by-four and soon he had to hustle for a regular store. Up on the square, where the people pass, he gobbled up a corner that was all plate glass. He fixed up the windows with the best that he had and told them all about it in a half page ad.

He soon had 'em coming and he never, never quit, and he wouldn't cut down on his ads, one jit. And he's kept things humping in the town ever since, and everybody calls him the Merchant Prince.

Some say it's luck, but that's all bunk—why he was doing business when the times were punk!

TROPICO

In vindication of the course he has pursued relative to the coming city election, Nelson C. Burch, city clerk, read an explanation at the meeting of the city trustees. This weekly session was attended by a large number of citizens and voters of Tropico who crowded the council room to overflowing and at the conclusion of the reading of the explanation by Mr. Burch, the applause was deafening, continuing long and vigorously, indicating that the sympathy of all was with the city clerk.

As a fitting testimonial to her popularity and efficiency as a member of the Tropico school board, Mrs. Abby Barker received 246 votes of the 304 cast at yesterday's school election. Mr. W. C. Wattles, opponent, received 58. As the polls closed over twelve voters appeared too late to cast their ballots for Mrs. Barker, mistaking the time of closing. The election was the liveliest and most interesting ever held in Tropico at a school election and resulted in the largest vote ever being polled. The result of 246 ballots attested the fact that a woman should occupy a position on the school board and the return of Mrs. Barker to the board which she has faithfully served the past three years all the more emphasizes the fact that Mrs. Barker's work has been appreciated. The result of the High school election, which was held at the same time, gave a total of 268 votes being cast, of which Claud O. Pulliam received 265, W. F. Rice 261 and W. J. Clendenin 3.

Mrs. A. W. Collins, Mrs. Harry E. Bowman and Mr. Fram served on the school election board.

CONTEST IN ORATORY

BRILIANTLY DECORATED AUDITORIUM OF HIGH SCHOOL CROWDED FRIDAY NIGHT

The greatest event that claims the attention of the students as well as the parents in school circles occurred last evening at the Glendale Union High school when the seventh annual oratorical contest was held. The seating capacity of the large auditorium was inadequate to accommodate the large and enthusiastic audience.

Each of the four classes of the school was well represented and upon crossing the threshold of the building the hum of gay conversation, bright and witty repartee and merry peals of laughter greeted one. This school and class spirit found a happy response in every parent and adult who assembled to enjoy the event of events with these merry boys and girls.

The dignified senior class presented a Spanish mission, which was prettily outlined in red and white, their colors. With a pretty arrangement of plumosis, myriads of red carnations and red roses peeped forth, while long sprays of white roses were twined and intertwined. This artistic and rose embowered mission proved a most ideal setting for the seniors who as gay senors and smiling senoritas occupied this embowered mission. To Eldred Marlett, Miss Carol Willisford, Miss Mary Evans Hough, William Renshaw, Henson Garrett and Miss Rachel McClure, popular seniors, is given the honor of designing the senior production and in their efforts and hard work they succeeded.

The presentation made by the Juniors was strikingly unique and very original. A large Chinese pagoda, profusely adorned, occupied the extreme rear of the auditorium. This was built entirely of Chinese bamboo. The entrance to the structure was truly cleverly designed and executed. Patches of green lawn were noticed as an approach. Numerous Chinese plants and shrubs adorned this green spot, while a number of Chinese cherry trees with fragrant bloom lent an added charm to the pretty replica of an Oriental scene. On either side of the pagoda huge Chinese dragons with their fiery eyes, great red tongues and long jeweled lashing appendages appeared as symbols of the Chinese. In every detail and the minutest conception was this clever and original design conveyed in the artistic work of the pagoda. Paul Williams, the young genius of the Junior class, conceived the idea of presenting an oriental scene and in this unique idea he was aided by the members of his class. They worked long and earnestly under the supervision of their classmate Paul and evolved a clever production. The lights that were so carefully concealed produced a very realistic scene, giving shadows, glorious early morning lights, as of the rising of the sun and then the full noonday and on to the glorious sunset. Still further was the oriental idea conveyed in the burning of incense.

Over to the right of the auditorium one was impressed with the pretty Irish design as created by the pupils of the Sophomore class. All that was required to complete this pretty conception would have been a patch of growing potatoes. The pretty thatched roof was covered with white and green, the class colors. Roses, roses, white roses everywhere, nodding and peeping from every lattice and every available space. It was one of the prettiest ideas and conceived and carefully planned by Miss Margaret Gregg, one of the Sophomore girls. In her work to fully represent her class, Miss Gregg was assisted by her classmates.

Occupying a large space near the center of the auditorium and directly in front of the handsome Chinese pagoda, space was given the freshmen class. Tall posts, properly braced and very artisticaly covered with red and green formed the strong support of the many feet of rope from which were suspended numerous articles of kitchen utensils, indicating that this was the production of the Freshmen class, and the idea was the clever conception of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Seaman of Tropico, assisted by Dr. Jessie A. Russell of Glendale.

Shortly after 8 o'clock an expectant hush fell upon the entire assemblage for in the far distance came the sweet notes of the plaintive guitar and the chiming mission bells and then the approach of the Seniors was made manifest. Pretty indeed were the girls of this class in their Spanish costumes. Black skirts over which were gracefully draped red overdresses, with red bodices and black mantillas, suggested the bewitching senoritas. The boys wore white costumes with red ornamental sashes, red neckties and gay sombreroes. In a most dignified manner these Seniors circled the auditorium twice and then were seated in their rose embowered mission, as the bells nestled among the roses ceased their chiming and the sweet refrain of the guitars died away.

The faint squeal of a small pig was heard which heralded the approach of the Sophomores who as Irish lads and lassies came marching in to the tune of an Irish melody. Miss Helen McMullin made a pretty Irish lassie in her costume of green and white with green laced bodice and small white apron, carrying the class mascot, a small black pig that was truly as much at home as "any pig in the parlor" would be. Milton Brown, the class president, in tall tile and brililant Irish costume, smoking his pipe of clay, attended Miss McMullin. Following came the

Who is an Old Man These Days?

If you think of it a moment you will recall that the type of Old Man you knew years ago has practically disappeared.

As you walk down the street, do you see many men who look as if they had passed the half century mark? The careless, slouchy old gent, unshaven, with baggy trousers and shiny coat, the "before the war" old man—he is no more.

You see only "Young" men wherever you go. Even where the silver streak and the wrinkled brow betray the years, there is a certain dapper manner that seems to defy Old Father Time.

Being young is just a matter of feeling and APPEARANCE. "You are as young as you feel," we say. To which must be added "You are as young as you look." And you look as young as you DRESS.

COSTLY POSTAGE OF OTHER DAYS

We who send a postcard from Maine to the Philippines at no greater cost than one cent have little idea of how costly the postage rate once was. For years, indeed, the world's postoffices appeared to act as if their mission was to prevent people from writing letters. It was Rowland Hill who finally convinced the British postal authorities that their duty was to encourage, not to hinder, letter writing. The uniform penny post was introduced into England in 1840, but in this country the postal authorities clung to the prohibitory idea for several years after the British had abandoned it for the policy of public service.

In the old days those who wished to send a letter to another city looked about for friends who were going to that city. Even merchants used this method for sending business letters. In English towns it was the principal duty of the outdoor clerk to hunt for friends about to go to London, so that letters might be transmitted free of charge. It was then the custom for everyone intending to travel to secure a seat beforehand, just as a berth is now engaged on an ocean steamer. The clerks used to go around to the coach office and ascertain by whom places had been booked. If friends, they were used as gratuitous postmen, and it did not injure a man at his banker's to be known as a good letter carrier.

PARLIAMENTARY SECTION TO MEET

The parliamentary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will meet at 1:30 p. m. next Tuesday, April 11, at Masonic temple. Subject, "Nominations and Elections."

The first ten minutes will be given to the question box in charge of Mrs. Helen I. Campbell, who says there will be a Hollywood contest question in the box.

The music section will be special guests and will assist in the drill. The curator, Mrs. E. W. Kinney, will preside. Other presiding officers wil be Mrs. Chas. Harlan and Mrs. J. R. White, Jr.

PEDDLING WITHOUT LICENSE

Sioud Rashid and Sol Kalele were arrested Friday morning on a charge of peddling without a license. The two peddlers had a large assortment of tablecloths and dress goods of all kinds. They were informed that the city ordinances required that they have a license before peddling from door to door. They were brought before Judge Whomes who informed them that they must take out a license or cease peddling. They refused. The judge then fined them $5, whereupon they asked that they be allowed to take out a license and that the fine be remitted. The judge allowed them to take out a license and that the fine be remitted. The allowed them to take out a license and then suspended the fine.

ATTENTION, MR. CITIZEN!

GLENDALE HAS LOWEST RATE FOR WATER AND LIGHTS OF ANY CALIFORNIA CITY

In view of the attacks made by E. M. McClure and others on things as they are in Glendale, it is well to consider that among the many other advantages enjoyed by Glendale, the combined rates for water and electric service charged by the Public Service Department of the City of Glendale are the lowest in the State of California, with the possible exception of two large cities that levy a heavy tax for water and light bonds, something which is not done in Glendale.

This, too, notwithstanding the following indisputable facts:

That no charge is made for water meters or services in Glendale, as is done by both of these cities, and is almost universal with cities which own their own water systems.

That Glendale has owned its water system only a year and a half.

That the Glendale systems are paying all expenses, and making all normal extensions out of their income.

That the Glendale water and light systems furnish to the city over $17,000.00 worth of service a year in excess of what the city pays it.

That Glendale is surpassed in size by over thirty cities of the State, and yet none of them surpass it in conditions of water and light service and rates.

A few comparisons will serve to show how Glendale fares in these respects as compared to its neighbors. These examples might be continued almost indefinitely, but the result would still be the same.

The people of Glendale pay one dollar for the first 1000 feet of water and thirty cents for each succeeding 1000 feet, with no charge for connection.

How do other cities fare?

Tropico pays $1.25 for 800 feet and seventy cents a thousand for excess.

Riverside pays $1.00 for 867 feet and $1.50 a thousand feet for excess. In addition a charge is made for every meter set.

Pasadena pays $.90 for the first 500 feet and one dollar per 1000 feet excess, besides paying the city for the service installation.

The people of Glendale pay for electricity: 7 cents for the first 20 kilowatts; 5 cents for the next 14 kilowatts; 3 cents for all thereafter, with a 50 cent minimum.

Tropico pays: 7 cents for the first 50 kilowatts; 6½ cents for the next 100 kilowatts, with a one dollar minimum.

Pomona pays: 7 cents for the first 100 kilowatts, 6½ cents for the next 200 kilowatts, with a one dollar minimum.

Practically all of these cities pay at least twice as high a rate for street lights as is paid by Glendale.

What have Mr. McClure and his candidates done to bring about this state of affairs?

Did any of them help the city to acquire its water system or its electric light system, or to improve them after they had acquired them?

No! They all fought them tooth and nail.

FAVORS BIGGER GLENDALE

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

I regard the election of city officers on Monday, the 10th, of great importance to the people of our city. I have lived in Glendale 12 years and have seen it grow and develop. I am proud of our city and her public improvements. Several years ago when the city proposed to take over the lighting system I opposed it because I did not think it was to our best interests. I have long since learned that I was mistaken and I am glad to acknowledge it. I believe in municipal ownership of public utilities and favored the purchase and development of the city water system.

Our public service department in Glendale is something of which we should all be proud. Though in its infancy it is a great success, we should lend all assistance possible to its continued growth and development. We should vote unhesitatingly for the annexation of the "pumping plant district." This property is a great asset to our water department and the city should have control over it.

I think we should all vote for the Remington street district. This section has asked to come into our city, and we should hasten to welcome this or any other community of good citizens.

I am in favor of these propositions and stand for a bigger and greater Glendale. Yours truly,

JOHN A. COLE.

Rev. and Mrs. Wester moved to their home in Pasadena on Tuesday. They will spend the week-ends here in the discharge of the pastoral duties of the Baptist church.

Mrs. Henry of Garvanza visited Mrs. A. H. Martin the past week.

About thirty young people from Littlelands and Sunland, chaperoned by Mesdames Alfred Adams and Lancaster, enjoyed a weinie roast on the banks of the Tejunga on Tuesday evening. Games and a social time made a pleasant evening for all. Will Lancaster and Harold Reed were the hosts of the evening.

Guests at the Monte Vista Tavern the past week are Mr. and Mrs. Minnise of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. George W. Opel, of Canada, who has been spending some time at the Tavern, was called east last week by the serious illness of his father; Mrs. P. Bran and daughter of San Pedro, who were week-end guests. Mrs. Van Romondt was up Sunday visiting her husband, who has been a guest for some time. Mr. J. R. Johnson, who is interested in orange growing in Sunland, was a guest. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Haupt, of Los Angeles, are stopping for some time at the Tavern.

Don't forget the C. E. rally on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at seven o'clock, and Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Among those who will be present and assist in the services are "Jimmie" Garth and A. H. Anderson, president of the L. A. County Union. All should hear "Jimmie" Garth, who is a live wire.

Our postmistress, Mrs. Alice Huse, has received a sack of vegetable and flower seeds from C. H. Randall, congressman. Patrons of the office are welcome to a free gift of these seeds if they will call at the post office.

The first quarter of the Sunland postoffice under the care of Mrs. Huse, closed March 31, and quite a satisfactory record is reported. Let everyone give the office their support and thus boost for the valley. Money order business will be in operation in a few days, and patrons of the office can have the benefit of the money order accommodations.

Work at the olive factory of A. Adams, Jr., is still in progress. The sorting of olives will continue for three weeks, and the output will be as large as any previous year.

Travel by stage to Sunland has become so heavy that on Sunday last, Earl Sims had to employ two extra jitneys in Los Angeles to accommodate the large number who wished to visit the valley. His own stages were busy all day handling the passengers. People are being attracted to this valley in large numbers, and many are making purchases of real estate.

PROPOSITIONS ON CITY BALLOT

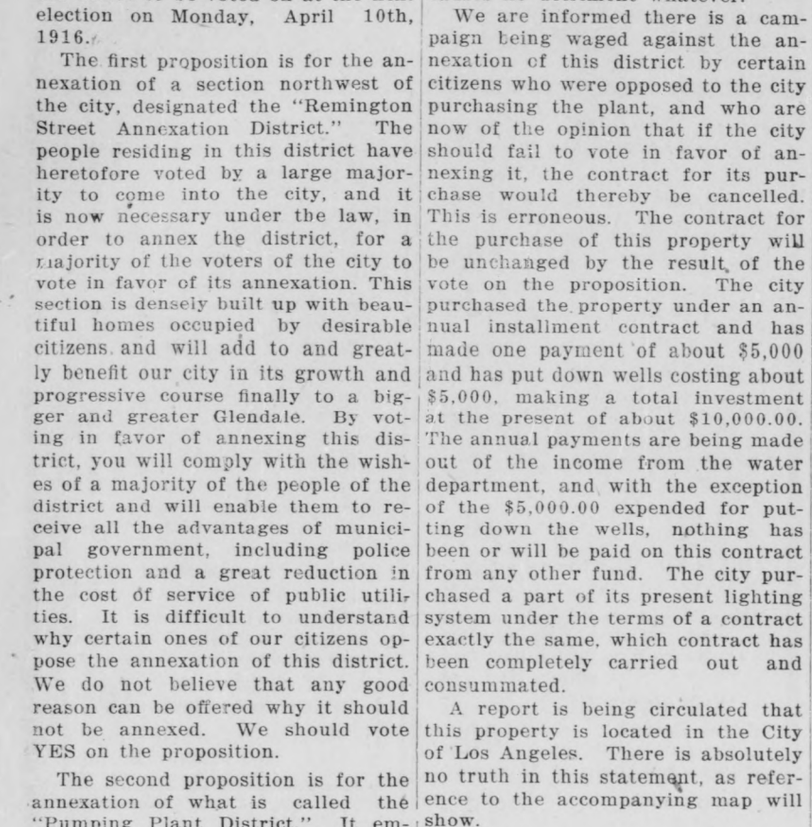
CITIZENS' WELFARE ASSOCIATION PRESENTS EXPLANATION OF THREE QUESTIONS TO BE PRESENTED FOR DECISION OF VOTERS AT NEXT MONDAY'S ELECTION

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

There are three propositions on the ballot to be voted on at the next election on Monday, April 10th, 1916.

The first proposition is for the annexation of a section northwest of the city, designated the "Remington Street Annexation District." The people residing in this district have heretofore voted by a large majority to come into the city, and it is now necessary under the law, in order to annex the district, for a majority of the voters of the city to vote in favor of its annexation. This section is densely built up with beautiful homes occupied by desirable citizens and will add to and greatly benefit our city in its growth and progressive course finally to a bigger and greater Glendale. By voting in favor of annexing this district, you will comply with the wishes of a majority of the people of the district and will enable them to receive all the advantages of municipal government, including police protection and a great reduction in the cost of service of public utilities. It is difficult to understand why certain ones of our citizens oppose the annexation of this district. We do not believe that any good reason can be offered why it should not be annexed. We should vote YES on the proposition.

The second proposition is for the annexation of what is called the "Pumping Plant District." It embraces a small strip of land running from the westerly boundary of the city to and includes the city's pumping plant and property on the San Fernando Road, the sole purpose being to annex the pumping plant lot. There are now three wells on this property, also pumping outfit, engine and equipment. It will be necessary to make other improvements on the property from time to time and it is thought best to annex this site so that the city would be able to exercise control over it and in the way of prescribing all necessary sanitary regulations for the protection of the property. Conditions might arise which would detrimentally affect the use of this property, or damage the improvements thereon, in which event the city should have the authority to pass ordinances and prescribe regulations for its protection. A few years ago the city annexed a strip of land extending far into the Verdugo Canyon for the sole purpose of protecting the purity of the water there. The same reason applies for the annexing of the pumping plant district. Should any evil-disposed person or concern attempt to trespass upon, or commit an offense against the property, pollute the water or in any way molest the improvements, the city should have the jurisdiction to cause such persons to be arrested and prosecuted without being compelled to invoke the aid of county authorities and suffer the necessary delay attendant to such proceedings under the general laws. It is for these and many other reasons advisable for the city to have its property located within its border, when practicable. The annexation of this strip of land causes no detriment whatever.



We are informed there is a campaign being waged against the annexation of this district by certain citizens who were opposed to the city purchasing the plant, and who are now of the opinion that if the city should fail to vote in favor of annexing it, the contract for its purchase would thereby be cancelled. This is erroneous. The contract for the purchase of this property will be unchanged by the result of the vote on the proposition. The city purchased the property under an annual installment contract and has made one payment of about $5,000 and has put down wells costing about $5,000, making a total investment at the present of about $10,000.00. The annual payments are being made out of the income from the water department, and with the exception of the $5,000.00 expended for putting down the wells, nothing has been or will be paid on this contract from any other fund. The city purchased a part of its present lighting system under the terms of a contract exactly the same, which contract has been completely carried out and consummated.

A report is being circulated that this property is located in the City of Los Angeles. There is absolutely no truth in this statement, as reference to the accompanying map will show.

We can see no good reason why anyone friendly to the continued growth and development of the city's public service department should vote against this proposition. A great number of the cities of Southern California have annexed shoestring strips of territory for the purpose of protecting their property. In our opinion, it is to the best interests of the people of the city that this proposition prevail.

The third proposition is whether or not the city shall be reorganized as a Fifth Class city. Those who know something of the relative powers and privileges of fifth and sixth class cities, should have no trouble in voting on this proposition. The law governing fifth class cities is antiquated in form and has almost become obsolete in use. It has been the custom for years for the cities to change from the sixth class to a chartered city. As a consequence, general laws governing fifth class cities have lain dormant, and have not been amended from time to time as has been the case with the laws governing sixth class cities. The change to a fifth class would be a step backward and as disastrous to the best interests of the people of Glendale as it would be to follow the advice on many other city government matters of those who are urging it.

By all means, you should vote against such a change.

PARCHER NAMES CANDIDATES

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GLENDALE NEWS:

The question is heard as we go up and down through the city, "Who are you going to vote for?" meaning in the coming municipal election.

This is a question surely worthy of every one's consideration, and after having given it our best thoughts I believe we should not be backward in naming those in our opinion who are well qualified to fill the positions they have been named for, thus letting our friends throughout the city know of our preference, and giving our reasons for the faith that is in us.

I feel that it is every man's privilege, and I believe every man's duty to speak out openly and candidly on the merits of the man or men whom he prefers. In giving my reasons for the candidates of whom I shall speak, I desire it distinctly understood that I have no grievance or fight with anyone of the other candidates, but on the other hand, I have only the most kindly and friendly feeling for each one of them, and give them all the privilege of asking for our franchise.

I will speak only of three candidates for office at this time,—viz. Mr. R. M. Jackson, Mr. Frank L. Muhleman and Mr. George B. Woodberry—all capable and most worthy citizens, making the records of their past qualifications the answer for my supporting them. If others have their preference let them advance it in the name of the man they prefer. In this way I believe the merits and interests of each candidate will be advanced, and each one will become better known to the voters of our city.

In the name of Mr. Jackson, the present secretary of our Chamber of Commerce, we have a southern gentleman, a native Kentuckian, whose past honorable record of doing things is a surety of his fitness for a trustee of our city.

After Mr. Jackson finished his education at the State University of Lexington, Ky., he entered the drug business with his father and brother. When the First National Bank of London, Ky., was organized, he was its first vice president, and four years later he was elected cashier, which position he held for twelve years. On the death of the president he was elected and served as president for four years. His health failing, he entered the coal mining business, being president of the new Diamond Coal Co. at Lamont, Ky., the Pittsburg Coal Co., Pittsburg, Ky., and secretary and treasurer of the Waldensia Coal & Coke Co., Waldensia, Tenn. He was also president of the London Electric Light Co. and president of the Laurel County Fair Co., and during the administration of Gov. John Young Brown, Mr. Jackson was a member of his staff with the rank of Colonel. Since coming to California he has resided at 102 So. Maryland avenue. In June, 1915, when Mr. J. F. Lilly resigned as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Jackson was elected to the place and at the January election was re-elected to the office which he holds at the present time.

While the question may be asked, if he has been capable of holding these honorable positions, "Why need he be seeking a position of this kind?" I desire to say that he, or either one of the candidates, does not seek the place, but at the importuning of friends reluctantly consented to run. So with Mr. Jackson, his friends, knowing of his ability and worth, practically forced it upon him, and being like all men put up for office he is going to do what he honorably can to win, and I believe it is up to the voters to elect him, for we want efficient and capable men in the affairs of our city.

In naming Mr. Frank Muhleman as one of my choice for city council, I am naming a man who has resided in Glendale since 1906, and has been identified in many things pertaining to the best welfare of our city. He took a very active part in the formation of a city charter, in fact drafting the charter and was chairman of the commission. He has always been much interested in our municipal affairs, regarding a municipal office of any kind a position of trust. I desire to quote his own words, "It has always been my idea that a public office is a public trust and that one should only accept the office feeling that it is a public trust to be carried out in the interests of the whole people." He was our city attorney for some time, resigning the office on account of his pressing law business. Mr. Muhleman's experience along governmental lines and his affairs with men and corporations as a lawyer cannot help but fit him for a position of this kind.

With just a few words of his own I leave Mr. Muhleman to the kind consideration of the voters. His Ideas of City Affairs: "I believe that our affairs should be so administered as to give the most economical administration of all the affairs of the city as the same be done consistent with efficiency in all departments. This of necessity might conflict with the views of others who are running for the office or who are now in office. I do not think that one can honestly declare in advance all the changes, or any of the changes, that may be necessary to be made in administering the affairs of the city prior to his careful investigation of the matter. From my own knowledge of the administration of public affairs in Glendale, I believe that our affairs are in good shape. It may be that as a trustee of the city I might advocate things that are, or would be, a change to that now in force. I think a proper spirit for the City of Glendale should be the lowest possible taxes consistent with proper and efficient administration of public affairs, but the low taxation should not be insisted upon at a sacrifice to those things which make our city a desirable place to live in, and for which people organize cities for the purpose of acquiring."

In naming Mr. George Woodberry as one of my choice for city trustee, I feel that he is too well known to the citizens of Glendale to need any word from me. However, some newcomers may not know of him. Mr. Woodberry came to Glendale in 1884, and has been a resident here ever since. He says he made pilgrimages quite extensively over the state, but found no place he liked better than Glendale. He was made superintendent of the Verdugo Consolidated Water Co. in 1886, and became secretary of the Verdugo Pipe & Reservoir Co. at the same time, and has been secretary of the Verdugo Consolidated Water Co. since 1901. When our city was incorporated, he was elected city clerk, which position he held until 1914, resigning at that time on account of poor health. Born in Minnesota, moving and living for a time in Louisiana, moving from there to Maine, and from there to California—practically boxing the compass of the United States, Mr. Woodberry has always been a public spirited citizen, working for the best interest of his adopted home town, entering upon any duty that fell to his part for the public welfare with characteristic energy and fairness. He has paid over $3000 to the City of Glendale as his share for public improvements and believes if we are to have a city that is worthy of the people who now live here that we need public improvements, and is willing to cheerfully contribute his share toward them. Mr. Woodberry's experience as city clerk certainly qualifies him for the position of city trustee. In every position Mr. Woodberry has filled since coming to Glendale, be it great or small, he has exercised keen judgment, efficiency and integrity.

In presenting the qualifications of these three candidates, I would ask the voters if they do not think they are well worthy of their consideration. Does it not require men of honesty and ability to manage the affairs of our city? Let us not fall into the idea—as some people express it—that all the qualifications that are required of our incoming trustees are just to "turn the rascals out." No! We need good, honest, capable men—men of integrity and worth—men who will do things and do them with an eye single to the good of our city which we all love.

If you can name any more capable and worthy men than these above mentioned, don't be afraid to name them and bring them out.

I desire to say I have written this without any solicitation whatever on the parts of the candidates named.

—WILMOT PARCHER.
728 W. 8th St.

BICYCLE STOLEN

Carroll Parcher, son of Wilmot Parcher, 728 West Eighth street, left his bicycle Friday night outside the library. This is a common practice, as everyone knows, and usually it is perfectly safe to trust to the honesty of Glendale people. Occasionally, however, some unprincipled individual from some other place comes into Glendale just to pick up such an unguarded piece of property. In this case young Parcher was unfortunately the victim. The bicycle had disappeared when he came out of the library. That was about 8 p. m. when it was dark enough for the thief to get away without detection. The police are hunting for the culprit.

A. E. HENNON FOR CITY TREASURER

TO THE PEOPLE AND VOTERS OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE: I am a property owner of Glendale where I was in business for four years. I am and always have stood for the best interests of the city. If elected to this office I will know neither east nor west, north nor south—only the people of Glendale as a whole. Being elected to office implies being a faithful servant of the people and showing courtesy to all.

I am in the prime of my life. My educational advantages have been such as to qualify me for efficiency in all branches of this office, to which I aspire. My experience as a school teacher for five years has further qualified me. Afterwards I was engaged in business for fifteen years, gaining much experience in bookkeeping and handling money.

It was at the urgent request of many citizens that I decided to become a candidate for this office. I am for a clean city, kept clean. I am a strong advocate for temperance reform.

OBITUARY

Beautiful and deeply impressive were the funeral obsequies of Miss Rose M. Kinney that were held in the Scovern, Lettern and Frey parlors Friday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. O. P. Rider of the First Presbyterian church of Tropico.

At the conclusion of the services the funeral cortege conveyed the remains of this Christian woman to Forest Lawn cemetery, where they were laid tenderly away, beneath a mound of many beautiful flowers to await the glad and joyous resurrection morn. Nine representatives from the Missionary society of the Berea Congregational church of Los Angeles and a large number of former students and graduates of Oberlin college were in attendance at the last rites for their co-worker, Miss Kinney.

The passing away of Miss Rose M. Kinney occurred at the home of her cousin, Mrs. W. R. Alexander, No. 322 Blanche avenue, Wednesday, and came as a surprise to a large circle of friends.

Miss Rose M. Kinney was born in Oberlin, Ohio, Feb. 21, 1837, and died at the home of her cousin, Mrs. W. R. Alexander, in Tropico, Cal., April 5, 1916, in the 80th year of her age. Her father moved from Vermont to Oberlin with his family about three years before she was born and was one of a colony that formed a sett'ement in the unbroken forest with the fixed purpose of organizing and maintaining there a Christian college. He raised a family of seven children. All of them studied in the college, and all but one graduated. Soon after Rose M. Kinney's graduation in 1862, while the Civil War was still raging, she went south as a missionary teacher to the freedmen. She continued in this work under the employment of the American Missionary association for 17 years, and was high'y commended by the officers of the association for her faithfulness and efficiency.

After this she went into the foreign missionary work, going out under the auspices of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions to the Caroline islands in the Pacific ocean. There were no white people there except a few missionaries. There was not so much as a store or postoffice that they could use nearer than Honolulu 3000 miles to the northeast. There was no regular way of getting mail except once a year when the missionary vessel, the Morning Star, came with their supplies for the year. She spent seven years there when, her health failing, she returned to this country. She afterwards spent five years in an orphan asylum in Illinois.

Since then she has been helpful in missionary, temperance and other forms of Chirstian work as her strength permitted. The last three and a half years have been spent in or near Los Angeles, Cal.

A few days before her death one, in going to visit her, stopped to speak to a boy badly crippled sitting in his wagon in front of his home. During the conversation the man remarked that he was going to see a sick woman a few doors farther on. The mother of the boy spoke up quickly, saying, "Oh, yes, we know her. She comes here to read to our boy." Like her heavenly master, she went about doing good, and there are many that will ever cherish her memory with loving gratitude.

She hath escaped all danger now,
Her pain and fighting all are fled;
The crown of joy is on her brow,
Eternal glories o'er her shed.
In golden robes, a queen, a bride,
She standest at the Savior's side,
She sees His face unveiled and bright,
A lesser light amid His light.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

While cranking his Chevrolet car Thursday Charles Yorba, son of Mrs. Sowl, of Casa Verdugo cafe and gardens, unfortunately broke two bones in his wrist. The crank kicked back violently and caught the young man unprepared for such an accident. His injury was immediately attended to by Dr. Bryant and he is now getting along as well as can be expected, though it will be some time before he can use his arm again.

Phil Felton, 1230 N. Brand boulevard, has been busy during the past week canvassing for members for the recently organized Stragglers' club and looking around for some suitable place for the meetings of the club which has outgrown its present quarters.

Mrs. Chapman, a wealthy lady of New York City, who is at present resident at the Alexandria hotel in Los Angeles, entertained a party of twelve at Casa Verdugo Sunday. The tourist season seems to have opened up satisfactorily as there were several tourist parties at Casa Verdugo Sunday.

Preparations are being made at Casa Verdugo to take care of a large party of trained nurses from Los Angeles who are ararnging an annual outing and banquet for April 29.

Mrs. W. D. McRae of Dryden St. was one of the active members of the Philanthropic Sewing club which met Friday at the home of Mrs. Bullinger, Third and Central avenue. The members did a great deal of sewing in the way of making layettes for infants. Much charitable work of this kind has been done in Glendale, Los Angeles and the vicinity.

Mrs. R. W. Meeker, 300 E. Colorado boulevard, attended the Republican banquet at Christopher's, Los Angeles, Friday, given by the Republican Women's league of Los Angeles county, in honor of Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Krebs, newly elected delegates to the Republican convention at Chicago.

other members of the class, each dressed in striking Irish costumes, the boys carrying small canes and sporting clay pipes. After marching around to the amusement of the assemblage and lead by the squealing pig and the favorite Irish melody, the lads and lassies were seated in their Irish shanty (?) and then after one plaintive little squeal the piggy went home to his pig tye.

Peeping through the doorway was faintly visible many bobbing heads wound most artistically in red bandana handkerchiefs, and then when a popular march was heard there entered the members of the Freshmen class. The din of every known kitchen utensil that emits any kind of a sound was heard. Bravely these "Scrubs," as they delight being dubbed, marched around the room, lead by a broom and mop borne aloft by the calss president, and a laughing young "Scrub." The costumes were quite unique and suggested every line of menial work. Boys in blue overalls, caps, hats, and gay red turbans were not to be outdone by the laughing girls in long aprons and red turbans. When these Scrubs were seated and the din and confusion of the multitude of sounds they produced with their utensils ceased and became but memory with the tiny bark of their mascot, a pretty black puppy, a silence fell.

Al were eager with expectancy. The Juniors are coming! The Juniors are coming! And who of those present will ever forget the imposing spectacle as Ed Seay in a most striking garb of an oriental potentate advanced, sounding a Chinese gong, heralding the approach of his many subjects. Pretty Jeannette McLennon, dressed in full Chinese costume and bearing proudly aloft the class banner, marched with the tread of a young Chinese woman. Lyndon Keyes closely folowed, and there came the notes of a Chinese flute which he played with a deftness rarely noticed in a real American boy. Then with that mein and bearing of the stolid Chinese the members of the class twice circled the auditorium, their colors, black and yellow, dazzling and very effective. The sleeves and blouses, which were of yellow, elaborately trimmed in black and bearing significant hieroglyphics, as well as the entire costumes were the ingenious conception of Miss Mona Butler. Paul Williams, Marjorie Imler, Harriet Williams, Jason Kilgore, Edwin Heacock, Carlton West, who with the class worked most assiduously to produce an effect in harmony with their artistic pagoda. Miss Butler was assisted in stenciling the costumes by Miss Jennie Lacey. The handsome banner was designed and executed by Miss Lacey and committee. Peeping from the palaquin was the mascot, two-year-old Roy Travis McDonald, who wore a costume of yellow satin trimmed in black and a long queue. The palaquin in which he was seated was borne by two of the popular Junior boys, who made most striking orientals. To Miss Helen Hardin is given the distinction of composing the popular class song and to Kenneth Beldin the Chinese yells, which later made the welkin ring under the leadership of Harry Glazier, yell leader.

The Juniors were no sooner seated in the pagoda and the applause that greeted them ceased until each class began to give its class song and yell.

Prof. Harry Home introduced Dwight Stephenson, a graduate of the school and winner of the second oratorical contest. Mr. Stephenson represented the Alumni and made a brief speech.

Mr. Purman Bennett, who won the oratorical contest of last year was presented as chairman of the evening and in a very pleasing manner presented each of the contestants who occupied seats on the platform, which was elaborately decorated in palms and ferns by the alumni. Robert Carmack represented the Freshmen class and appeared to splendid advantage in a fine address on "The Boy Scouts of America." Robert was presented with a handsome bouquet of red carnations and ferns, the class colors. Miss Ethel West, as a charming representative of the Senior class gave an interesting address on "Vocational Education in California." To Miss West was presented a large basket of the sweetest and reddest of roses that ever grew. Dan Hagin in a fine speech on "America in the Philippines' won the applause of all and he was seen carrying a huge bouquet of beautiful pink carnations which later were handed his mother, Mrs. Fred Hagin, president of the P. T. A. of the High school. No finer speech was delivered than was the one given by Marian Lehman, who took for his subject "Preparedness." That his oration was thoroughly appreciated can be realized by the long applause that followed. A large bouquet of white roses and ferns was presented this young orator.

Prof. Howe then appeared on the platform and this was the signal for silence for the prizes were to be awarded. Upon the decision of the judges for the most artistic booth the Freshmen were given the prize. Judges Rev. W. Mottern, Mrs. E. W. Kinney and Mrs. N. E. Luce made the decision. Dr. Bryon Wilson, Attorney E. D. Ellis and Miss Dole of the Manual Arts High school, all Los Angeles judges, of the oratorical contest, gave the prize of twenty dollars to Miss Ethel West. The Seniors seized their mascot, Billy Burke, arrayed in their class colors, and ascended the platform where Miss West was fairly carried off her feet by the wonderful demonstration.

GIVE WOMAN A CHANCE

EDITOR GLENDALE NEWS AND VOTERS OF GLENDALE:

As candidate for the office of City Clerk I will, if elected, certainly endeavor to give satisfactory service in every way. We feel that in many ways our city will be greatly benefited by a woman in this office. Women are hired as assistants in this office all over our land; why not elect them to the office? We see no difference in a woman working in a store or office for one person or firm, than to work for the population of Glendale.

Being the first candidate announced (Jan. 20th), the only woman candidate in Glendale, we are doing pioneer work for the women who will follow on in the future, as they surely will.

We have no regrets for the help we have been enabled to give for the suffrage campaigns of 1911, and at various elections to keep our city clean, co-operating always for the growth and advancement economically of Glendale. My life record, also that of my residence for past ten years, seven of which was given as president of the W. C. T. U., is above reproach, always serving faithfully against all evil for the good I might do Glendale and humanity in general.

Now, we are reminded by many admirers, that the returns are coming back to me when needed for the support of my home.

As one lady, a stranger to me, said, "We are glad to see a woman who has the pluck to do what you are doing," with two men your opponents. This office cannot plan and guide this city as trustees do, therefore, we stand for the Golden rule. I leave this for your consideration.
